ArkMalibu Advises eMpulse Test Systems in Its Strategic Sale to AB Dynamics

ArkMalibu served as the exclusive financial advisor to eMpulse Test Systems in its strategic sale to AB Dynamics, a leading global provider of automotive test and development solutions. Terms of the transaction were not disclosed.

eMpulse Test Systems is a designer and supplier of advanced servoelectric test systems. The systems are used by manufacturers across automotive, aerospace, packaging, and industrial end markets to evaluate product and component performance including noise, vibration and harshness (NVH), structural integrity, and durability. Over many years, eMpulse has built a strong reputation among North American OEMs and developed a rich suite of proprietary technology and intellectual property.

AB Dynamics is a global provider of testing, simulation, and development solutions to the automotive industry, with an established laboratory, track, and simulation portfolio serving vehicle manufacturers and technology suppliers worldwide. eMpulse's technology and products are highly complementary to AB Dynamics' existing laboratory testing portfolio, creating a broader and more capable offering for customers. The combined portfolio strengthens AB Dynamics' position in servoelectric testing technologies, which deliver performance and energy-efficiency advantages over traditional hydraulic alternatives.

Together, eMpulse's proven product range and AB Dynamics' global sales and support network create new opportunities for customers around the world.
